

COMMANDING OFFICER'S UNIT, PERSONAL, AND FAMILY READINESS POLICY

Unit, Personal, and Family Readiness directly affects the mission of Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron-14. All of us are integral to the team and each of us must maintain a high state of readiness to enhance the ability of the Squadron to successfully complete our mission.

Our Unit's Family Readiness Officer (FRO), Mrs. Jessica Reynolds, is one of the best resources for you and your family. She is the resident expert and will professionally manage the four pillars of the family readiness program: Official Communication, Readiness and Deployment Support, Information and Referral, and Volunteer Management. Our FRO and Family Readiness Command Team are charged with providing the support you require to enhance your readiness.

My intent is to have an effective and engaged Unit, Personal, and Family Readiness Program that supports you and your family in every way possible. My vision is a program that supports all Marines, Sailors, and their families to ensure proactive communication, precise and timely referral to supporting agencies, effective readiness and deployment support, and enjoyable family events.

I fully support and encourage volunteers in the Family Readiness Program. All Dragons and spouses, regardless of rank, are welcomed and encouraged to be members of our Family Readiness Command Team. I challenge you to be a part of a "force in readiness" by taking proactive measures to increase your personal readiness and your family's readiness.

Together we will take care of ourselves, our families, and our Marines and Sailors. I appreciate your dedication and professionalism to enhance the unit, personal, and family readiness of MALS-14. Please join me in making our Dragon Team stronger with your full support of family readiness.

Semper Fidelis,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "J.M. Bolduc".

J.M. BOLDUC

Lieutenant Colonel
Commanding Officer, MALS-14